EDCI 6300: Introduction to Research
Professor: Yan Yang, Ph.D.

Article Critique Oral Presentation Guidelines

1. Presentation length: 10-15 minutes/per presentation, including question-and-answer period.

2. Content: Each presentation will focus on only one article critique instead of two, at the choice of the presenter(s). The following content needs to be covered:

   a. Article summary, including background, purpose of the study, study design (methods, participants, etc.), results, and implications.

   b. Strength of the article in line of the article critique guidelines and AERA standards.

   c. Weakness of the article in line of the article critique guidelines and AERA standards.

   d. You overall ratings and comments on this article.

3. Familiarity: presenter(s) need to be familiar with the presentation content. Reading PowerPoint slides or notes will affect the grades.

4. Presentation Format: either PowerPoint or web-based instruction.

5. Presentation Work Load: If the article critique is group rather than individual work, group members are expected to demonstrate successful collaboration and equal participation in the process.

6. Q & A: Each presenter(s) are expected to take and answer questions from the audience.

7. Please provide a grading rubric with presenter(s) and article information PRIOR TO the presentation.